Glossary

AAL is committed to improving the quality of life of African Americans throughout Metropolitan Chicago and sees its support of grassroots organizations as a key component in that effort. In particular AAL is committed to supporting organizations that are black serving which means constituents are predominantly black and/or from the African Diaspora (Africans brought primarily to the Americas as slaves who live around the globe—Brazil, Haiti, Dominican Republic, Europe and Asia) and black led meaning the staff and board leadership are predominately black and/or from the African Diaspora.

Black-Led

- Minimum 51% of Staff leadership are of the African Diaspora
- Minimum 51% of Board and Board Leadership are of the African Diaspora

Black-Serving

- Minimum 51% or more constituents served are of the African Diaspora

Organizations defined as grassroots shall be Informed by the Grassroots Grantmakers definition: people who are drawn together by something that they have in common that has personal and community consequences and grant themselves the authority to solve the problem they are facing or create the future that they desire. (Definition of Grassroots by Janis Foster Richardson, Grassroots Grantmakers' former Executive Director)

Place-based. Grassroots groups are quintessentially local—with specific connections to a block, neighborhood, local institution (school, library, church, community center, etc), park, or rural area and arise from people's shared experience with and interest in a place—an urban neighborhood or a rural community.

People-focused. Grassroots groups are directly and immediately responsive to the needs and wishes of the people involved. A defining characteristic is that most of the work is done not only for the people involved but also by them. Grassroots groups provide the mechanism for individuals to discover and bring forth their individual gifts to their community.

Informal structure. Grassroots groups vary in structure and formality, from more formal (with elected officers/or a board of directors, written bylaws, and members who pay dues) to very informal (without any officers or formal memberships—perhaps even without a name). They may or may not operate as a 501(c)(3) entity—but more typically do not have (and probably do not need) this designation.

Membership. While membership may not be explicitly defined, grassroots groups work with a clear sense of who “belongs” and with the understanding that the group is a vehicle for the collective action of the members. Membership can range from two to hundreds of members.

Duration. Grassroots groups can be temporary, transient or ongoing; they stay together so long as those involved find the association useful and fulfilling. They can be focused on a single issue or task or can work on multiple issues or tasks.
